

Participant Accident Insurance for Entertainment & Production

Entertainment is one of the most high-tech and quickly evolving industries in the United States. Chubb Accident & Health understands that with so much innovation and imagination comes unique perils and risks. From on-site injuries to contestants or cast members to incidents that occur while traveling to and from production, accidents happen.

Our Participant Accident plans are designed to help fill gaps that Workers Compensation and General Liability insurance typically don't cover. They also enable entertainment organizations to demonstrate their commitment to the safety and wellbeing of their talent and participants. Coverages can be customized to your organization's specific needs to help mitigate risks and protect your people.

Our policies have been designed to provide coverage for various types of production and entertainment organizations, including:

- ▶ Television Shows
- ▶ Reality TV and Adventure Productions
- ▶ Documentary Productions

Coverage is available for contestants, on-screen talent, and cast members.

It may also be available for crew members, where applicable. Please reference our Guild Travel Accident product sheet for additional information on coverages for crew members.

What's Covered?

- ▶ Trips – Day and overnight trips for purposes of production
- ▶ While traveling to and from any of the above activities
- ▶ Examples of covered activities include the following:

Claim Scenarios

Situation	Risk	Action	Outcome
 A reality show cast member lost their life in a single-vehicle accident when they lost control of their vehicle while filming a racing scene.	The cast member was not an employee of the production company, making him ineligible for Workers Compensation. Filing a General Liability claim was another option for the cast member's family, but that would have possibly entailed years of litigation and out-of-pocket expenses.	Chubb's Participant Accident policy effectively addressed the claim, resulting in a $1,000,000 benefit payment* to the family of the cast member without the need for litigation to establish negligence.	To avoid the possibility of litigation, most production companies are required by General Liability carriers to purchase a Participant Accident policy for productions utilizing talent and/or cast members who aren't considered employees. After verifying the beneficiary and receiving the death certificate, Chubb's Claims team promptly issued the death benefit payment. The expeditious payout may have discouraged the family from pursuing additional damages via a lawsuit.
 Despite precautions taken by the production team, a contestant on a television show sustained multiple injuries, including broken bones, cuts, and bruises, after competing in a physical challenge.	The contestant's extensive injuries required immediate medical attention. She may have been able to file a General Liability claim, but faced the risk of losing the lawsuit and could have experienced an extended wait time to obtain payment for related medical expenses.	The contestant was transported to the nearest medical facility and received immediate medical treatment, which was entirely covered by Chubb's Participant Accident policy, resulting in no out-of-pocket medical expenses.	The medical facility submitted the required documentation to Chubb's Claims team, which quickly processed payment for all the contestant's medical expenses. The Participant Accident policy provided financial relief, significantly reducing the financial burden on the contestant and allowing her to concentrate on her recovery.

*The standard principal sum is $250,000, but higher benefits may be available upon request and are subject to the level of risk involved.

The claim scenarios described are hypothetical and are offered solely to illustrate the types of situations that may result in claims. They are not based in actual claims and should not be compared to an actual claim. The precise coverage afforded is subject to the terms and conditions of the policy as issued.
